Abstract

The study of the Palestinian issue is one of the important topics that deserve research and study, and it requires comprehensive Scientific knowledge, historical and byroad horizons, as well as knowledge and tracking of Jordanian -Saudi relations and the development of events in the countries in question, so that the researcher can make accurate and objective judgments on these developments, and can carry out a process. The link between the facts of the Palestinian issue and the extent of their impact on religion and the relations between them.

Arab countries witnessed Arab countries after the Second World War and most of the Arab countries achieved their complete independence. This research came to shed light on the Jordanian - Saudi relations 1948-1967, the most important developments in which the convergences of views, especially the Palestinian issue.

Came to our choice of 1948 as the beginning of the Jordanian Saudi relations when This year witnessed a Prominent Political development, which is the Arab-Jewish ware As for our choice of 1967, the end of the subject of study because of another political

The Jordanian-Saudi relations began to be strengthened by the year 1933 after the conclusion of the Treaty of Friendship and Good Neighborliness, and the Great Palestinian Revolution was considered the most important event that strengthened these relations and their unity towards the issue of Palestine. By totally rejecting the partition resolution in 1947

Its names include a lack of money and a or a behind the dam, and a korn and wan will not ask that the father of Surah did not want to establish a government of all parts of Saudi Samoa and Jordan opposed it, but the helmet fulfilled the first Minecraft and did not seek to annex the West Bank To Transjordan and succeeded in achieving that dream, and the oppressors of King Abdullah bin Al-Hussein, relations witnessed a remarkable development and the two countries' positions on supporting the Palestinian refugee cause and providing material and moral support.

The Arab arena witnessed a presentation of Western American projects in the context of seeking to join those countries to its side, but in return it met with Jordanian-Saudi opposition. The Baghdad Pact came in support of the Palestinian cause, but the two countries opposed the alliance and refused to join it, but this refusal did not last long, as Jordan joined the alliance later.

The decision of the second aggression against Egypt is one of the most important events that the years of the years witnessed and which all Arab countries have faced with regard to standing in the face of the enemy.

a paragraph . Arab and Palestinian calls have appeared for the establishment of an entity that represents the Palestinian people calling for their rights at the regional and international level, but the Jordanian-Saudi relations were united in the direction of rejecting Ahmed Al-Shugairi's claim to the Palestinian entity, but the latter pledged not to prejudice Jordan's property, especially the West Bank, which prompted it to agree to it and made the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia Alone standing Against him

By the year 1967, Arab-Israeli relations had deteriorated and resulted in a war that had a profound impact on the entire Arab region, and the positions of Jordan and Saudi Arabia were united in the war, as Jordan participated in. During the war, Saudi Arabia supported it and sent military forces to participate in the war. On the Jordan side, the war ended after the United Nations issued an international resolution to end the war. It left disastrous results on the Arab world, especially Jordan and Syria, and their losses for large areas.
