The Linguistic Subjects in 'Abd al-Qadir al-Baghdadi's (d. 1093) Sharah Shawāhid ar-Raḍī 'alā ash-Shafīa

Abstract

This subject is one of the morphological subjects classified in the linguistic studies in general and morphology in particular. The topic of the study revolves around examining the morphological evidence in explaining the texts of morphology: Sharh Shafiyat Ibn Hajib by Radhi Al-Din Al-Istrabadi and Al Baghdadi's Sharah Shawāhid. Hence, the title is (The Linguistic Subjects in 'Abd al-Qadir ibn 'Umar al-Baghdadi's(d. 1093 A.H.) Sharah Shawāhid ar-Raḍī 'alā ash-Shafīa.

The thesis comprises an introduction which studied the explanation and the explainer. It includes two chapters. Chapter One examines the morphological phenomena and the specific significations they raise and the important issues they address in the different topics of morphology.

Chapter Two discusses the general linguistic phenomena raised by the morphological evidences in explaining Sharah Shawāhid. whether they are syntactic, semantic or phonetic.

One of the most important results of the study is the importance of the morphological evidence in explaining the linguistic rules and the dialectal phenomena by means of which we can understand many linguistic issues related to the nature of language as a social phenomenon.
